BOYS TOO YOUNG TO KNOW MONEY Find $5,500.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 16.—Bits of $50 and $100 bills flying with the wind on one of Wilkinsburg's streets caused a startled policeman to "look about."

After a hurried investigation he located a half dozen boys with rolls in their pockets of from $600 to $2,000. Some of the boys were too young to know what it all meant and were playfully tearing up the money. The money—$5,500 in all—had been found by the youngsters under a lumber pile in the yard of a Wilkinsburg dealer.

There was a recent robbery of one of the Wilkinsburg banks and the money is believed to have been hidden by the robbers in the lumber yard.

The Industrial Conference

Every Bedford citizen is watching President Wilson's industrial conference which convened in the marble palace which houses the Pan American Union in Washington, D. C., with extreme interest. It is one of the most remarkable gatherings ever assembled in this or any other country. To have brought capital and labor together into conference with representatives of the public at a time when the air is so charged with menace and the materials for a nation-shaking explosion lie so thinly beneath the surface with itself a notable achievement, but more notable still is the spirit which pervaded the gathering at the end of a week in which acutely antagonistic forces were brought into contact more intimate than they ever before had known.

No man of practical understanding expected the conference to be a love feast or to take on the character of a pink tea. It is made up of red-blooded fighting men of strong convictions, who have vital interests, and no thinking person expects them to sacrifice these interests.

But if any good accomplishment is a result from the conference, there must be, on the part of both capital and labor, a sacrifice of things which are very near vital. Just how much of these near vital things must be sacrificed is the problem which confronts both the employers and the labor groups. After watching the opposing groups for more than a week, there is every justification for believing that both are ready to make measurable sacrifices for the sake of industrial peace.

Celebrated Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. McCreary of Cessna, reached the fiftieth mile stone in their wedded life last Saturday, October 11. The event would be a notable one in the life of anyone and but few people live to celebrate it. The day was observed in an appropriate manner at the McCreary home, and will be long remembered by those who were there.

A sumptuous dinner was served at mid day at which time Mr. and Mrs. McCreary were presented with many gifts of gold. A gold handle cane for the groom and a black silk dress were presented to them by their children.

All the children and grandchildren were present and the party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McCreary and daughter, Margaret, and Clarence Anderson of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. David Butler and son Edwin, and daughter Marie, and Mrs. Yingling and son Gerald Roaring Spring, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith and children Arden Irene and Martha of Newry; Rev. and Mrs. Baumgardner and children Fred Martin, and Erna of Union Bank, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Studebaker of New Paris and the following folks of Cessna: Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hornstine; T. R. Studebaker, William Hissong; Mrs. Jasper Trout, Miss Lola Spidel, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hinckley; Alfred, Robert, Jesse and Fred Anderson; Helen, Stanley, Brent and Agnes Hoenstine; Elizabeth Margaret and Milo Hissong, and Charles Spidel.

These fifty years of wedded love, how brief and few they seem, swift as a summer day of joy, Eventful as a dream.

The babies we fostered long ago, And called them "children" then The girls into mothers grown. The boys to stalwart men.

We launched our bark in sunny youth;

The date seems far away: But years have shortened into months.

Months into fleeting days.

Gary and Gompers started out on speaking terms at the beginning of the conference, and it is hoped they will be found so at the conclusion.

Even if Hiram Johnson were an aspirant to a presidential nomination he would be too competent a politician to make it a matte of conspiracy concern at this time.

AN OPEN LETTER AND APPEAL

By the Democratic Campaign Committee
—Why and How Pleacher, Eichelberger, James and the Other Gang Candidates Were Nominated On Republican Ticket

To the Voters of Bedford County:—

The hour has struck for you to ignore party lines and elect on November fourth the best qualified and most worthy men to County and Township offices. Judges are to be elected all over the state on Non-partisan ballots, and so, too, officials in many of its municipalities. The people are awake as never before to the need of electing the most competent and qualified men to administer their local affairs, regardless of politics, leaving party issues to state and national elections. The man who is a slave to the party lash in the hands of gangsters, ringsters, grafters and selfish wire pullers is an enemy of good government and unworthy the ballot. "STICK TO THE PARTY," is the cry of the political birds who are feathering their nests, while the unthinking voter is led astray from his patriotic duty to his community and friends.

Now, what is the situation in Bedford County? A gang of schemers who have never done a thing for the advancement of the county—Brice, James, Heltzel, Ed Smith, Pennell and Jordan type entered into a combine which any respectable citizen would spurn. They selected the men who were to be nominated on the Republican ticket for County offices and sent out letters accordingly to their henchmen. They levied upon them their allotted contributions to a slush fund—an account of which has not yet been filed by its chairman. They simply lied to every man not admitted to the "Ring" in pretending they were for him, while they were getting ready to put upon him the double X X. They carried this game to the limit in playing fast and loose with Howard Kinton and Thomas Eichelberger for County Treasurer, by setting up Geo. Heltzel as a "make believe" to Kinton and his friends, while the leaders in the sham performance were fulfilling their pledges to Eichelberger. In this farce they bowled out Joseph Imler and Frank Steele, the former of whom is now an independent candidate because no Republican has ever been treated more foully by this same gang than he has been. Eight years ago when he was fairly nominated over Eichelberger and Rufus Smith—in Everett, the home of the former, and in Hopewell township, the residence of the latter and of Ed. Smith, the son—these men played the part of treachery by which their districts carried him to defeat.

WHY PLEACHER WAS SELECTED.

In the case of the Prothonotary they searched all over the county to get leading citizens to enter the contest against Charles R. Mock, but they manfully declined because Hon. Judge Bailey had pronounced Mr. Mock the best prothonotary he had known; because his office was a model in the dispatch of business, and because he, like every other Prothonotary, was entitled to a second nomination. What was the objection? HE HAD DECLINED TO BE A TOOL OF THIS RING.

So they set to work to play their usual game of deceit by pretended love for a soldier candidate, forgetting that none of them voted for Warren Hoenstine, the Democratic candidate for the legislature last fall, a soldier in the service, when Ed. Smith, the Hopewell township Slack candidate was shielding himself from the draft by his membership of the legislature, he had disgraced.

They looked over the more than eight hundred good and true men who answered their Country's call from Bedford county and finally settled upon the one poorest qualified for the office—one who had played soldier for years in the National Guard in Company L, and through the influence of personal friends became a Second Lieutenant, and then notched up one grade, while many boys went out as privates and returned as Lieutenants. He was said to have been wounded, though where or how seriously, it has never yet been revealed—he was gassed, it was said, and unfit for manual labor, though he is vigorous enough to play the game of baseball with any of them. His trade was that of rolling cigars—with a limited education and no training for keeping the records of the Court. He has been made a candidate for an office requiring a broad business experience, capacity for organizing and dispatching office work in which he is obliged to enter deeds and judgments, issue executions, keep the public records in which all the people have much at stake, and assist in conducting the business of the Courts.

The place is a big jump from that of a cigar roller. Is it possible the people understand the risk confronting them in the attempt to perpetrate what is almost a crime against public interest? His qualifications are so poor that his trainers went to Harrisburg and reported in the last issue of the Bedford Inquirer before the Primary Election that one Henry M. Stine, a lawyer, who for a short time had been captain of his company, had certified to his fitness. They did not dare present it over the signature of Mr. Stine who, as a reputable citizen, refused to have his signature attached and they lied in saying he was a lawyer while he was simply a County Commissioner of Dauphin County. When this member of the Pleacher Campaign Committee, the author of this certificate, lied in one thing, it is presumed he lied in all. Pleacher must certainly have a bad record for fitness for the place when such schemes are resorted to. This was an invention, doubtless, of the affidavit getter, one Edgar Smith, who employed this method to clear his skirts of having his auto loaded with liquor at a certain picnic in his campaign for the legislature, and to prove a case of "HIGH FEVER" when he was asleep at something else at Harrisburg when in his absence the Prohibition Amendment vote was taken and his constituents misrepresented and betrayed.

To carry out the game of using a soldier to accomplish their mean ends, their agents were instructed at each polling place to say to the voters: "Vote for the poor wounded soldier"—"Be a 100 per cent. American," forgetting that R. Peyton Turner, the Democratic Candidate, a thorough American citizen in every sense, remained at his post of duty, and co-operated with every line of war work advanced for the winning of the great war.

The voters at the coming election should be on to the scheme of putting an incompetent into an office he cannot fill, and will rebuke the gang by voting for Mr. Turner, as good a Patriot as Pleacher ever dare be. If Pleacher heeded the recent warning of General Pershing to the American soldier boys not to allow themselves to be made the instruments to further the ends of scheming politicians, he would have kept out of the hands of these schemers.

WM. B. MOCK JOINS HANDS WITH THE CLIQUE

The gang started out against William B. Mock for Register and Recorder, but he soon bent the knee, and swore allegiance to the "Ring" and then Howard Clark was thrown on the political junk heap. If he believes in the fair play that would have nominated him easily, he will be heard from at the election in the support his friends will give to Jasper Luman—the people's candidate.

Sunday School Conventions Are Being Largely Attended

The series of Sunday School Conventions or Institutes that the County Sabbath School Association are holding throughout the County are being attended in a way that warms the hearts of those who have put so much time in them.

The first one held in Wesley Chapel on Monday was an encouraging start. While afternoon sessions have never been so well attended, yet this one and in fact all so far held have had many more than were expected.

These afternoon sessions being the one in which at least those with the success of the Sunday School at heart always attend. At Wesley Chapel splendid addresses were made both afternoon and evening by Mr. W. D. Reel, the State Worker who is bringing us messages that can not help but stir those with the interest of the kingdom to renewed action.

He not only tells us why these things should be done, but how to do them. Other splendid addresses were made by Rev. Allen and Rev. Holsonape, of Everett and in such manner that could not help but win attention. Mr. T. Imler, our county President, in his short address left no doubt in the minds of those present about his sincerity and his intense interest in making Bedford County a 100 per cent County in Sunday School work and his efforts certainly bespeak that success.

The Bedford Band of 36 members, that splendid organization of Prof. Koontz's tried to untangle the most intricate system of roads in Bedford County and were present. One car became lost and did not reach the Convention church until Nine o'clock, and after the convention, in returning, five cars of the band were lost and the boys declare they saw signs boards reading "Six Miles to Hancock Md." so that they did not reach home until the wee small hours of the morning. However, they certainly could tell repaid by the attention they had and the inspiration to the young people who were so intensely interested in the younger members of the band.

Tuesday's Convention was held in the Brethren Church of Snake Spring Valley, representing the Everett District. The same speakers were present here, however with added though and inspiration. At this point Bedford's splendid quartette rendered several selections and even though there was a down pour of rain all day, yet the attendance—while not so large as the attendance the night before—was considered splendid considering weather conditions.

Wednesday's convention went to District No. 4 and the afternoon session was held in the Brethren church at New Enterprise, where the attendance was not so large as the other two days, but made up for it in the evening when the Convention Hall was crowded to the limit. At this point in addition to talks by Mr. Reel, Mr. Lysinger and the County Chairman, Mr. Stoudnour, Chairman of Blair County, delivered a stirring address. Mr. Stoudnour has arranged to be with several more sessions of the convention. At this point an orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Cloyd Doty rendered several selections. Mr. Doty is directing the music of the conventions and rendering real service in creating enthusiastic singing.

The offerings have been fine and will enable the County Association to render still further service.

The offer of $75,000 worth of books to that school making the best showing before the next county convention is creating a friendly spirit that will be interesting and helpful.

This Friday Night the convention will be held in Union Bank Saturday in S. Bellville Sunday in Bedford Monday in Cumberland Valley, Tuesday in Hyndman Wednesday in Rainshin, Thursday in Chaneyville, Friday in Claysville Saturday the 27th at Lanesdale and Sunday the 28th at Sutton.

Living M. Ebersole is the poor one armed farmer candidate for County Treasurer who sent two of his boys to the front. Are you going to vote for him? The County Treasurer's office belongs to the farmers of Bedford County. Are the farmers of Bedford County going to surrender it to the special privileges? It is their chance to help Mr. Ebersole has only one arm and has a big family.

"He is rich and has a daily income of from $70 to $170 and doesn't need it." Are the temperance people going to surrender their principle now?

of our earthly ills, we are in a bad deal for all of them than it is seen fit to seem. Of course, it is not so easy as it sounds to put fear and worry, harboring love affairs and desire native emotions—hatred, envy, out of mind. But if this is done we must do it ourselves. Doctors cannot do it for us, and realization that the matter of health is largely in our own hands must contribute to the wiser ordering of life.—Chicago Daily News.

ENCOURAGE PULLETS TO LAY

Avoid Any Interruption of Regular Habits or Radical Change in Fowls' Diet.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The growing pullet is a creature of habit, thoroughly addicted to regularity and vigorously opposed to disturbance and unusual commotion. It is essential for the good of the flock in its entirety that the pullets should grow and improve like clockwork, from the time of hatching to maturity. Laying is often retarded by seemingly trivial disturbances, such as moving the fowl from place to place and changing the makeup of the ration.

In order to insure early eggs see to it that the growth of the pullets is not retarded in any manner whatever. Almost without exception the pullet whose growth from hatching to maturity has been regular, not subject to checks and interruptions, is an early layer. In support of the statement that checked growth results in retarded laying, comes the fact that May-hatched pullets often lay earlier than others which were hatched in April but retarded in the early stages of their growth by unfavorable weather. Retardation by weather conditions however, is only one of many factors which may stunt the normal growth of a pullet and defer her entrance to the laying class.

As a rule, egg production begins at or before the cessation of the pullet's physical growth and development of the reproductive organs. Generally, influences which hinder growth also operate to delay egg production for several months. Any disturbance affecting the habits, quarters or comfort of the pullet at any stage of her life may retard laying. Shifting the birds from place to place and abrupt changes in the diet often disturb the fowl enough to retard laying. In fact, poultry fanciers who desire to keep pullets in condition for exhibition often use this means of keeping them from laying. On the average, pullets about to begin laying are more sensitive to disturbances than at any other time.

A Flock of Well-Developed Pullets Ready to Begin Laying.

At the stage of their growth, and therefore require greater care in handling, disturbances retarding the growth even of small chicks are likely to postpone the beginning of egg production.

It is imperative that every poultry keeper exercise the maximum of caution from the time the chicks are hatched until the pullets attain maturity, so that the fowl will make regular growth and not be subjected to any factors which will stunt or divert the proper development of the birds.

The alphabet of proper management of the pullets emphasizes such factors as correct nourishment, constitution, exercise, and cleanliness. Given the proper care and surroundings, the early-hatched chick will develop into a profitable, early and persistent producer of eggs. This is the goal toward which every poultryman should work.

I am sending you this list as a result of a conference which I have just held with the executive of the American Association of State Highway officials, at which it was represented that the various states are very anxious to secure additional equipment of the kind indicated.

I am thoroughly in sympathy with the efforts that are being made by the war department to aid returning soldiers in securing employment, and I am convinced that, if the equipment and supplies listed are made available, it will facilitate highway construction and thereby stimulate the employment of labor.

GOOD ROADS HELP SCHOOLS

A survey made by the government of the effects of good road building on school attendance in eight counties shows that before the roads were improved the average school attendance was 66, with 76 after the roads were improved.

Now All You Good Fellows, Come Fill Up Your Pipes

If ever men are "Tom" and "Bill" to each other, it's when good pipes are a-going. If ever good pipes go their best, 'tis when Velvet's in the bowl.

For Velvet is a mighty friendly smoke. Kentucky Burley is the leaf that Nature made for pipes. Wholesome and hearty, honest as the day. And Velvet is that same good Burley leaf, brought to mellow middle age.

For eight long seasons Velvet "meditates" in wooden hogsheads, throwing off the rawness of "young" tobacco—truly "ageing in the wood." Out Velvet comes—cool, calm and generous—the tobacco Nature made good, kept good and made better.

Velvet's sweetness is the sweetness of good tobacco, not "put on" like "frosting" on a cake. Its mildness comes from natural ageing, not from having the life baked out. Its fragrance is true tobacco fragrance, not a perfume. And Velvet makes an A Number One cigarette. Roll one.

As good old Velvet Joe says:

"Fill yo' heart with friendly thoughts,
Yo' mouth with friendly smoke—
An' let the old world wag."

The Sleep Ration.

John Wesley experimented in sleep rationing as a cure for insomnia. Finding he woke every night about twelve and lay sleepless for some hours, he decided to go to bed later and rise earlier. The first day he rose at seven instead of eight, the next at six, the next at five, the next at four. By rising at that hour he found he slept without waking throughout his "ration," and thereafter rose at four for good.

Obedient Little Winifred. Winifred was in the habit of visiting a neighbor and coming home with her hands full of chocolates. I remonstrated with her about it and the day after she stood by the neighbor's door and said: "My mother says I'm not to come in if you are busy, but you're not busy, and she says I must never ask for chocolates." A moment's pause and then she spoke winningly: "But you haven't any chocolates, have you?" Exchange.

"Philadelphia Measure."

When old Philadelphia was laid out a defective chain was used in the survey. This chain made each hundred feet three inches longer than it should have been. Property in much of Philadelphia is still defined in this incorrect measure. Hence the term "Philadelphia measure."

Father of the Typewriter.

Just 100 years ago, Christopher Lath Sholes, the "Father of the Typewriter," was born in Pennsylvania. While serving as collector of customs, he became interested with two other inventors in the problem of making a machine that would write letters and words. A letter written on one of the early machines attracted the attention of a capitalist, who provided funds, and Mr. Sholes continued improving the model until at last the first practical typewriter was put on the market.

Big Girl for That.

That tooth was certainly annoying. Miss C., the primary room teacher of the A— school, put her finger into her mouth to discover the cause of this annoyance. Ollie, a bright-faced little pupil, noting the act suddenly asked: "Teacher, how old are you?" Choosing to ignore his impudence she made no answer. He was not to be daunted, however. With an expression of scorn he said: "I know you're over twenty, and just think I still sucking your finger."

Good Rules for Life's Conduct.
Those that are perfect men do not easily give credit to everything one tells them; for they know that human frailty is prone to evil, and very subject to fall inwards. It is great wisdom not to be rash in thy proceedings, not to stand stiffly in thine own conceits; as also not to believe everything which thou hearst, nor presently to relate again to others what thou hast heard or dost believe.

Koreans Well Advanced.

The Koreans are much superior to both Japanese and Chinese in culture of heart and in mentality. They are progressive on constructive lines; in economics they equal America, and their spiritual side is well balanced, both men and women being eager for knowledge on ethical lines. They are reticent and refined in their moral nature.—Chicago Daily News.

Family Pride.

Family pride, as it exists in society, seems to involve an absurdity, inasmuch as the honor of being descended from a great man increases exactly as the degree of consanguinity to him diminishes; for his immediate descendants are as mere upstarts compared to such of his remote posterity as can trace their origin to their great progenitor, back through a period of many years.—John Malcolm.

Unladylike Behavior.

Bernice was in the habit of calling her father on the telephone. On one particular occasion she had lifted up the receiver and had asked for the number wanted. After waiting about a minute the operator told her to hang up because the line was busy. After she hung up she exclaimed to her mother, standing close by: "Oh, mamma, the lady chased me off the phone."

NEGLECTING THAT GOLD OR COUGH?

Why, when Dr. King's New Discovery so promptly checks it

IT'S natural you don't want to be careless and let that old cold or cough drag on or that new attack develop seriously. Not when you can get such a proved successful remedy as Dr. King's New Discovery.

Cold, cough, grippe, croup does not resist this standard reliever very long. Its quality is as high today as it always has been—and it's been growing steadily in popularity for more than fifty years. 60c. and $1.20 a bottle at all druggists. Give it a trial.

Tardy Bowels, Inert Liver

They just won't let you put "pep" into your work or play. Sick headache comes from retaining waste matter and impurities in the body.

Feel right for anything—make the liver lively, the bowels function regularly, with Dr. King's New Life Pills. Smoothly yet positively they produce results that cleanse the system and make the liver and bowels respond to the demands of a strong, healthy body. Still 25c.—at all druggists. Try them tonight.

Spiders and Gold.

One of the many quaint superstitions of the sixteenth century was that "Spiders be true signs of great stores of gold." The saying arose in this way: "When a passage to Cathay (the China of today) was being sought by the Northwest, a man brought home a stone which was pronounced to be gold, and caused such a ferment that several vessels were fitted out for the express purpose of collecting gold.

Frobisher, in 1577, found in one of the islands on which he landed, similar stones, and an enormous number of spiders."

How Dandelion Got Name.

Some of the names of flowers are so fanciful that it is hard to understand how they ever had birth in the mind of the people—for instance, the dandelion, which is so called from the French dent de lion, because the serrations of the leaves were supposed to resemble the teeth of the king of beasts.

YOUNG CHICKS NEED WARMTH

When Brooded by Hens They Remain Under Mothers Nearly All the Time for Three Days.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The first requirement of young chicks is warmth—a temperature comfortable for them. Chicks hatch in a temperature of 102 degrees to 105 degrees F. When brooded by hens they remain under the mothers nearly all the time for two or three days. Chicks shipped in small boxes are kept warm by the heat of their bodies so long as the boxes are not exposed to near-freezing temperatures, but this natural heat is not sufficient when they are given more liberty.

Autos Hurry Development.

The advent of the automobile in the country districts was the quickener that put the spark of life in the good roads movement.

Good Roads Demanded.

Good roads are demanded as an essential to the proper extension of national and local development.

Sense in Superstition.

There is often a common-sense reason underlying what, at first sight, seems merely a superstition. Take for instance, the old belief amongst soldiers, that a mine much frequented by mice is a lucky mine. We know now that mice are peculiarly susceptible to foul gases, and the presence of unusually large numbers of these little animals, therefore, is proof positive of the absence of any danger. Hence the alleged "luck."

Her Consolation.

Another pathetic little feature of the general situation is the way almost any given elderly maiden can look carefully about among her friends' husbands and be honestly glad she hasn't any.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

Republican Officials Tribute to President

Among the remarkable tributes which were paid to President Wilson by Republicans in the course of his recent tour of the Middle West and Far West that opened by State Senator J. B. Weaver on the occasion of Mr. Wilson's visit in Des Moines is probably one of the most forcible. The oration of Senator Weaver's introductory address is given in the Evening Tribune, afternoon edition of the Register, a Republican newspaper, as follows:

"Since November, 1918, we have had time to measure in part the immensity of the losses and burdens entailed by the conflict. The sorrow and heartaches are immeasurable, but we know now that the debt of the seven chief nations has grown from twenty to two hundred billions. The securities outstanding against these nations alone are six times the amount of the total deposits of all the banks in the United States, and twelve times the value of all the gold and silver mined since the beginning of the world.

"You and I know that this path leads to chaos. The terrible burden of debt thus placed upon the backs of the peoples of the world is sufficient had it been used in the avenues of peace, to have transformed utterly the face of the globe, raising its millions now living in ignorance and degradation into the sunlight of an enlightened civilization.

Favors League

"Instead, the war has brought untold suffering and has left the hearts of the peoples inflamed and embittered; made restless millions even in lands most favored; and raised on the horizon of the world's life that sinister and bloody figure of irresponsible savagery the bolshevist.

"The question the President will discuss is whether out of this night of the world's life shall come the dawn of a new era—an era in which by concerted action through the League the resources of the nations shall be devoted not to war, but to the crying social needs of the world. For this humanity calls in agony—calls most of all to the great nation whose isolation has vanished forever before the logic of a changed world.

"This is the great cause your Chief Executive comes to present. He comes to the heart of the Middle West tonight as your President and mine. He has carried uncomplainingly the greatest load of responsibility, save one, ever thrust upon the shoulders of an American. He comes to counsel with you upon issues vital to the preservation of civilization. You listen to him in the most fateful hour in all the ages.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have the great honor to present the outstanding figure in all the world today—your President, Woodrow Wilson."

Women Democrats on National Committee

Having been the first of the major political parties to invite women into full partnership in the management of party affairs through associate membership in the full national committee, the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee went a step further at its recent meeting here when it decided to ask the women to "sit in" at meetings of the executive body.

Under a resolution unanimously approved, Chairman Homer S. Cummings was authorized to appoint seventeen women from the various geographical divisions of the country to meet with the seventeen male members of the executive committee. It was also decided that at the forthcoming meeting of the full national committee, at which the time and place of holding the next Democratic national convention will be determined, the woman associate in each state shall have the same rights and the same powers as her male colleague and an equal vote as well. Should the two representatives of a state differ, that state will be recorded as casting a half vote each way.

Prior to taking this unprecedented action the executive committee adopted the following resolution proposed by John T. Barnett, of Colorado:

"Be it resolved, That it is the sense of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee that in those states where the national suffrage amendment has not been ratified the legislature should be called into session at once for the purpose of ratifying the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution, so that the women of the United States may have the privilege of the franchise in the Presidential election of 1920."

Women Voters to be Organized

Up to the present nineteen states have ratified the suffrage amendment. The sanction of thirty-six states is required before the amendment may be operative. It was in the hope that action by the remaining state may be expedited that the executive committee went on record in favor of special legislative sessions in the various states.

In addition to passing the resolutions referred to, a special sub-committee of three was appointed to pay particular attention to the organization of the women voters. This committee will consist of Chairman Cummings, Attorney General Palmer, who is a member of the executive committee and Wilbur W. Marsh, treasurer of the National Committee, authorized and appointed by Chairman Cummings. One on finance is composed of Senator A. A. Jones of New Mexico; Representative Cordele Hull of Tennessee and Dr. John W. Coughlin of Massachusetts. The third sub-committee, which will take up matters of publicity, consists of Norman E. Mack, publisher of the Buffalo Times, Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution and Fredrick B. Lynch of Minnesota.

All these sub-committees are to report back to the executive committee about six weeks hence. Where the next meeting of the executive committee will be held has not been decided, but it probably will meet either in Washington or Atlantic City. The meeting here, held at the St. Charles Hotel, was one of the best gatherings of the executive committee in months. For two full days the twelve members of the committee present discussed the business of the national organization and the national headquarters in Washington. A spirit of optimism over the 1920 election was apparent in the deliberations.

Since November, 1918, we have had time to measure in part the immensity of the losses and burdens entailed by the conflict. The sorrow and heartaches are immeasurable, but we know now that the debt of the seven chief nations has grown from twenty to two hundred billions. The securities outstanding against these nations alone are six times the amount of the total deposits of all the banks in the United States, and twelve times the value of all the gold and silver mined since the beginning of the world.

"You and I know that this path leads to chaos. The terrible burden of debt thus placed upon the backs of the peoples of the world is sufficient had it been used in the avenues of peace, to have transformed utterly the face of the globe, raising its millions now living in ignorance and degradation into the sunlight of an enlightened civilization.

Last Friday was a hot day in the County Commissioners office. Mr. Bradley had called a special session of the County Commissioners to try to defeat the petition of Joseph P. Imler to get on the ticket as an independent candidate for County Treasurer. Bradley had fire in his eye and was determined to prevent the doors locked and they then prodded and was also determined to prevent the withdrawal and endorsement of the Labor League recommendations on Broad Top. It was easily seen that Bradley had been instructed how to play the game because he presented arguments that he alone would not have ability enough to get into his "noddle". After the discussion was warmed up and Bradley found he was being outwitted he informed Mr. Eichelberger who was in seclusion in a back office and Eichelberger sent up Mr. E. M. Pennell and Mr. John H. Jordan. These two austere gentlemen ordered the doors locked and they then proceeded to bat the air and yell. Attorney Minich after the wind quieted down, said the petition of Mr. Imler was regular and should be filed. The feathers of Pennell and Jordan fell and Bradley skinned off. They penned Jasper Luman in the Commissioners' office while these politicians played their game so Luman had to suffer the stigma of being locked up in the place of Retention at the County Commissioners office where they delight in doing the people's business in secret, just as the $200,000 road money was voted for to build the road from Yellow Creek to the Huntingdon County Line.

Facts About Motherhood. Free

Each year nearly a quarter of a million babies die in the United States, a large number of which could have been saved. One hundred thousand of these babies die in the first month of life most of them because of conditions affecting the mothers before baby was born. By giving proper care and attention to mothers before the baby is born, thousands of baby lives can be saved.

DEFINITE PLANS PREPARED

Interesting News Items, Briefly Condensed, Picked Up at the Departments, Which Are of Interest to the People of the State.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Definite plans for participation in the erection of memorials on the site of Fort LeBoeuf, in Erie county, and the battlefield of Bushy Run, in Westmoreland county, have been made by the State Historical Commission with the approval of Governor William C. Sproul. In the Erie county project there will be erected a statue of Washington as he appeared when he first visited what is now that county before the Revolution, and the State will meet any subscriptions which may be made up to $3,500. In the Bushy Run project the plan is to erect a monument on the Wanamaker tract.

Counties Closed For Hunting.

The State Game Commission has given notice that 22 counties of the State have been closed to hunting of certain kinds of game and warning hunters that they should familiarize themselves with the conditions. Ten of the counties are closed to wild turkey hunting and 14 to various kinds of quail. Twelve counties are closed to shooting of ring-necked pheasants.

The counties which are closed to certain kinds of game are Adams, Allegheny, Armstrong, Bucks, Carbon, Chester, Clearfield, Crawford, Delaware, Erie, Fayette, Greene, Jefferson, Lancaster, McKean, Mercer, Monong, Northumberland, Somerset, Wayne and Wyoming.

Survey of Coal Counties.

State and national co-operation in surveys of Pennsylvania counties containing coal is being effected in Fayette and Somerset counties through forces of the United States Geological Survey, the new State Bureau of Geological Survey and the topographic corps of the State Highway Department. Dr. George H. Ashley, the State Geologist, is working on plans to extend the surveys to other counties. The three agencies will work together and avoid duplication. A program for more than two years will be worked out.

Educational Congress Postponed.

Pennsylvania's educational congress, planned for the discussion of education in general at the State Capitol during the week of November 11, has been postponed until the week of November 17, according to an announcement made by Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The committees to arrange the program will have a meeting here shortly with Dr. Finegan.

Fewer Quarantine Cases.

State Health Department officials say that with the first anniversary of the inauguration of the influenza quarantine just passed, there are not more than the normal number of influenza cases in the State. The influenza quarantine was made effective October 4, 1918. At present some outbreaks of diphtheria and infantile paralysis are being followed up, but there is nothing else out of the ordinary.

Election Forms Being Prepared.

Official forms to be used for the November election in Pennsylvania are being prepared in the Bureau of Elections in the Department of the Secretary of Commonwealth. They will specify the manner in which the party squares, the "first column," shall appear on the ballot; the position and form of the non-partisan column and the spaces for county and municipal elections.

Inspection of State Forests.

Inspections of conditions on State forests upon which to base provisions in the new contracts to be made by the State Forest Commission for sale of coal, oil, gas and lumber which may be on State property are being carried out by Col. Henry W. Shoemaker and Gifford Pinchot, members of the commission. They have planned extensive trips.

The former has woefully neglected the duties of his office as District Attorney, while the latter has no other employment than that of playing politics. The spectacle of James trying an important criminal case is pitiable, and the people generally will bear witness that justice has oftener miscarried than been vindicated. The quashing of indictments for his errors, and the acquittal of notorious criminals, through his ignorance of the law, is well known to the members of the bar. Through his inefficiency and careless discharge of duty, the county has been saddled with enormous costs. The business of the Criminal Courts has been postponed and delayed, and justice has not been meted out to offenders.

U. S. WANTS HELP OF BOYS AND GIRLS

Secretary of Treasury Asks
Them to Shape the Nation's Future.

School boys and girls of America have been honored by a direct appeal for assistance from one of the highest officials of the United States Government.

Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury and a member of the President's Cabinet, recognizing that the future of the nation will be controlled a few years hence by the boys and girls of today, has asked them to build up habits of industry and saving which will be permanent influence for national welfare.

Secretary Glass' appeal reached all school boys and girls of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware through their teachers on Friday, October 3, which was made National Thrift Registration Day in the schools, when the boys and girls pledged themselves to save money regularly and invest in Government Thrift and Savings Stamps.

The War Savings Division of the district is anxious that every boy and girl should possess a copy of the Secretary's letter. With the co-operation of the newspapers the letter is now printed in full and every boy and girl is requested to keep this copy of it, study its suggestions carefully and do all in their power to give the Secretary of the Treasury the assistance he so confidently expects from them.

The Secretary of the Treasury—Washington, September 23, 1919.

To the School Boys and School Girls of America:

In addressing the twenty million or more school boys and girls of this country I am addressing the citizenship, the business and professional men and women, the producers and consumers and the home makers of only a few years hence. The responsibility of the problems of our country will ultimately fall upon you.

The spirit of patriotism and helpfulness which you displayed during the world war is proved your fitness for your future responsibility. Your record in production of needed materials during the war, your saving of food and money, and your investment in Government securities is a record of which every American citizen is justly proud.

It is the earnest desire of your Government that you should continue to practice and make permanent the same habits of industry and economy, that through your influence and example America may soon become a Nation of savers and cease to be a wasteful Nation; that this may be a Nation of people who always save some part of their earnings, who spend money with greatest care, and who invest what they save in some safe place.

It is good to see that our school boys and girls have continued during the vacation months to save their money and are buying Thrift and War Savings Stamps, thus laying aside a portion of the money they earn for some future purpose, and while they are continuing to render some service to their Government, they are at the same time providing for their own needs.

The habit of earning and saving money is a most interesting and happy one. I am sure that this habit has become so fascinating to you that you will continue to earn and to save through all the months and years to come and keep investing what you save in Government securities.

It is my personal hope that the lessons of Thrift that you are being taught in your school may help you to develop in your life permanent habits of saving and thereby lay a foundation for your personal happiness and usefulness and ultimately for a bigger and better America.

Sincerely yours,

CARTER GLASS.

Extravagance rots character; train youth away from it. On the other hand, the habit of saving money, while it stiffens the will, also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Deep Degradation.

"I haven't seen Pilkington for a week." "No, he hasn't been out of the house since his accident." "Was he seriously injured?" "No, but he feels the disgrace deeply." "Disgrace?" "Yes. After living in the heart of the city all his life he went to the country one day last week and was run over by a milk cart!"

ROSIE SMITH

By JACK LAWTON.

"It's the chance of your life," Gilbert Hane's sister wrote him, "and you had better come out here at once. You know that you must make a money-marriage, Bert, if you hope to succeed in your profession. Doctors cannot begin a practice on nothing a year; and I feel that I have done my share in giving you a start."

Frankly, it was with your interest at heart, as well as my own, that I married Carleton Page, and the union has been a happy one—not from a financial viewpoint alone.

"You are aware of your own powers of charming when women are concerned, there your lexicon knows no such word as fail."

"The Ocean Breeze hotel is a costly establishment. None but the fortunate may make their habitation here for any length of time, and the Austin Smiths intend to remain the summer.

But then we know in Chicago what that name stands for. Upon the hotel register, the noted guests are inscribed as Mrs. Austin Lee Smith, Miss Adele Smith and Miss Rosie Smith.

You are to take notice of the latter; Mrs. and Miss Smith are quite unapproachable, no reigning sovereign could be more determinedly exclusive than they. None of us have been favored with more than a bowing acquaintance. It is therefore Rosie Smith, upon whom I found my hope, a sweet, appealing little creature.

"When she is not accompanying Mrs. Smith upon some pleasure jaunt, she is seated in a quiet nook of the veranda, where she exchanges pleasant words with us all. But fancy, Bert, the enormous wealth these two girls will inherit, and hasten yourself and your winning way in this direction."

Light of anticipation shone in the handsome brother's eyes as he finished reading his sister's letter. Genevieve always had his interest at heart. She was right, a marriage for money was his only road to success, and he would bid Phoebe good-bye and start immediately for Ocean Breeze. Phoebe need not know his proposed adventure; the shock would be hard enough when it came. He must let her down easy.

When he arrived at the ocean resort, his sister met him, jubilantly.

"Just in time for presentation to Miss Rosie," she said. "That quaint name suits her demure pinkness. The Austin Smiths are driving."

Gilbert looked admiringly down at the dainty girl figure before which his sister paused. It seemed too good to be true, that an heiress so desirable should also be the possessor of loveliness and charms.

Miss Rosie smiled in acknowledgment of the introduction, and though her gaze, during the hour which followed, was upon her embroidery, she glanced up at the irresistible Gilbert occasionally while responding to his conversation.

When Mrs. Austin Smith and the stately Adele returned Miss Rosie murmured his name to her, before following through the entrance.

Gilbert was entranced. Moreover, he was delighted with his own overwhelming good fortune. Genevieve was certainly a winner in selection.

Thereafter he assiduously devoted himself to Miss Rosie Smith at every opportunity. And as he frequently heard her refusing to accompany the envied family over their drives or outings, he complimented himself upon the fact of her enjoyment of his society. For it had become habit for Gilbert to join the air after their departure, in visiting nooks to which she carried books or sewing.

Her friendliness toward himself could not be doubted; the lucky circumstance of being brother to Mrs. Carleton Page had helped him here, he was sure. But with all her friendliness and companionship Rosie Smith lost none of her reserve. Personalities seemed not to interest her. Gilbert, speaking of his professional ambition and his life heretofore, hoped for a return of confidence. It was not forthcoming.

It is the earnest desire of your Government that you should continue to practice and make permanent the same habits of industry and economy, that through your influence and example America may soon become a Nation of savers and cease to be a wasteful Nation; that this may be a Nation of people who always save some part of their earnings, who spend money with greatest care, and who invest what they save in some safe place.

It is good to see that our school boys and girls have continued during the vacation months to save their money and are buying Thrift and War Savings Stamps, thus laying aside a portion of the money they earn for some future purpose, and while they are continuing to render some service to their Government, they are at the same time providing for their own needs.

The habit of earning and saving money is a most interesting and happy one. I am sure that this habit has become so fascinating to you that you will continue to earn and to save through all the months and years to come and keep investing what you save in Government securities.

It is my personal hope that the lessons of Thrift that you are being taught in your school may help you to develop in your life permanent habits of saving and thereby lay a foundation for your personal happiness and usefulness and ultimately for a bigger and better America.

Sincerely yours,

CARTER GLASS.

Extravagance rots character; train youth away from it. On the other hand, the habit of saving money, while it stiffens the will, also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Deep Degradation.

"I haven't seen Pilkington for a week." "No, he hasn't been out of the house since his accident." "Was he seriously injured?" "No, but he feels the disgrace deeply." "Disgrace?" "Yes. After living in the heart of the city all his life he went to the country one day last week and was run over by a milk cart!"

Before Gilbert Hane's stare of amazement she paused.

"It is kind of them to make much of a poor little nobody like myself," she added, "because—"

Gilbert arose dazedly.

"I have to go," he muttered, "business appointment back in town." And he had been on the verge of proposing to this "poor little nobody." He must get away, he reflected. She would grieve, of course, but

"I was about to tell you," Rosie said, and smiled, "that Mrs. Austin Smith and Adele have been very kind to me, because I expect very soon to be married to Austin Smith, Jr."

"Symptoms"

By ALDEN CHAPMAN

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union)

Young Doctor Bellows felt that he was on the high road to success when that acknowledged leader of the ruling social set, Miss Marcia Druse, sent for him. He was a newcomer in the village and had located there upon learning that the principal physician, Doctor Morton, was about to retire from practice.

Bellows understood that Miss Druse had been a source of regular professional income to his predecessor. He was in the drug store when the telephone message arrived and its proprietor grinned expansively.

"I hope you diagnose Miss Druse's case on the basis that Doctor Morton followed," he observed. "Miss Druse is a good patient to nurse along, and you mustn't oppose symptoms. They comprise the pet frailties of her life. She has been that way ever since an electro-specific-humbug faddist discovered that she had about everything under the sun. Why, do you know that she actually broke off the engagement with Col. Leo Dysart, the richest man in town, on account of the predicted near approach of dissolution?"

The young physician made no comment, and realized that it was policy to act on his own initiative. He spent a full two hours with this new patient. Miss Druse had a long list of symptoms to present, a whole library of medical works, a miniature drug store in her cabinet, and Bellows at once analyzed the situation. She was physically sound, but with her idle whims and the arrant nonsense injected by the faddists she would, he foresaw, ultimately degenerate into a chronic hypochondriac.

Bellows was serious of visage and sympathetic of mien, but this he affected in order to gain time to think over matters and possibly rescue his patient from her fanciful terrors and infuse into her some common sense.

"I did not sleep at all last night," doctor declared. Miss Druse doffed. "For several days there has been a stinging sensation in the left shoulder blade, dangerously near to the heart. I can feel a distinct lump there. Don't alarm me too greatly, doctor, if there is still any hope, but I very much fear that it is the beginning of the end."

Doctor Bellows diagnosed a vicious mosquito bite and tanned to ponder gravely. He had interrogated his patient as to diet and habits of exercise, and a quick idea suggested itself and he illuminated it to the full.

"Miss Druse," he said, "do you wish to become a perfectly well being, in all the fullness of your youth and beauty?"

"Oh, Doctor Bellows! you are flattening me," she simpered. "But—yes, of course, I desire the restoration of my health above all things."

"Then you must absolutely follow my directions. I will leave you a simple lotion that will speedily eliminate the swelling on your shoulder. We must arrive at a point where there is more elastic action to the vascular network, and for this I am going to give quite drastic directions. You must arise at six o'clock every morning and go to bed at nine o'clock every evening. You must exercise every morning and evening, and let the wind blow through your hair. Heat ALL Your House THROUGH ONE REGISTER

Yes, it's just as possible in your home as it has been in fifty thousand others. You, too, may have every room comfortable with balmy healthful heat, reaching every corner by Nature's method of circulation—and all through only one register! It isn't necessary to clutter up your house with pipes, overheat your cellar and incur big bills—not when you can get the

PIPELESS CALORIC FURNACE

The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

It can be set up in a day, without inconvenience to you, and will make your home as comfortable in the severest winter weather you will be well repaid.

Your house will be uniformly warm; your cellar will be just right for the storage of fruits and vegetables. Your fuel bill will be less than with stoves that heat only a part of your house.

HERE ARE THE REASONS

The Caloric is the Original Patented Pipeless Furnace—the result of the study of competent engineers to solve the heating problem in the most satisfactory way. That they have succeeded is proved by the fact that the number of Calorics sold on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction is three times greater than any other pipeless furnace.

The cause of this satisfaction lies in the patented and exclusive principles that distinguish the Caloric from all others. It is a complete furnace, provided with an extra casing, but a complete revolution in furnace building designed exclusively for pipeless heating.

Come In And See Us

We will show you what these principles are, will then see what Caloric quality means, why it succeeds, and why imitations cannot accomplish results. Then you will be in no danger of buying inferior article, with all its disappointment in later Get a copy of the book "Progress," which tells about pipeless heating. If you can't come in, write

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 19

JESUS IN PETER'S HOME.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:29-39
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus said unto him, this day is salvation come to this house. Luke 18:9.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Matt. 8:14-17; Luke 4:38-44.

I. Healing of Simon's Wife's Mother (vv. 29-31).

1. A loved one ill (v. 30). From the synagogue Jesus with James and John went to the home of Peter and Andrew where he found Peter's mother-in-law prostrate with a burning fever. Among the closest followers there are suffering ones and anxious and burdened hearts, but to all such he comes with loving sympathy and power to help. His power is the same in the quietude of the home as in the public meeting of place.

2. They tell him of her (v. 31). This was the proper thing to do. We should bring to our Saviour's attention those of our families who have need, of both bodily and spiritual healing.

3. He healed her (v. 31). "He came and took her by the hand and lifted her up." This act showed the nearness, sympathetic tenderness and power of Jesus. At his touch the fever departed and strength was imparted to her body so that she was at once able to minister unto them.

4. She ministered to them (v. 31). This act shows that (1) the cure was instantaneous and complete. When Jesus heals there is no halfway business. It is the same with spiritual healing. (2) Gratitude on the part of the one healed. Those who have experienced the healing power of Jesus will express their gratitude in loving service to the Lord and his disciples.

II. Christ's Ministry at Sunset (vv. 32-34).

It became noised about that a notable miracle had been wrought in Peter's home, therefore as soon as the Sabbath drew to a close many demon-possessed and diseased were brought to him to be healed. If we would have the crowds to gather today we must be able to show that Jesus is at work among us. Our testimony should be backed by the healed body or soul.

1. He healed those of divers' diseases (v. 34). Jesus can heal any disease. Many of the cures spoken of today are temperamental, but the cures wrought by Jesus were of all sorts. No malady ever baffled him.

2. Cast out many devils (v. 34). The devils obey him. There is no record of a demon ever disputing the authority of Jesus. At his command they rendered instant obedience.

3. Suffered not the devils to speak (v. 34). He bids the saved soul witness of his saving power, but will not allow the devils to speak in challenge of his authority or in witness of the truth of his deity.

III. Jesus Retires to Pray (vv. 35-37).

The arduous service of the day made it desirable to be alone with the Father in prayer. Shut out from man—alone with God. How necessary the hush of the eternal, the calm of God! There is great need of private prayer.

IV. Preaching Throughout Galilee (vv. 38-39).

He continued steadfastly to preach, for this was his supreme business. His miraculous works were but aids to his testimony. Preaching the gospel is the chief concern of all who would follow Jesus.

Harmony.

It is a beautiful and blessed world we live in. The flowers blossom in obedience to the same law that keeps the stars in their places. Each bird song is an echo of the universal harmony. It is humanity which thrusts discords, and false and jarring notes into the days. We go out into the beautiful morning carrying our useless loads of frets and worries, our leftover resentments and our faithless fears. The sunshine assures us that the world is still moving safely in its appointed course and God has not forgotten us; the birds lift their cheering notes of rejoicing that they have found food for the day, but we lift complaining voices because we have not found provisions for years to come. Our moody spirits and jarring tempers hurt the love on earth and in heaven. But they hurt our own souls most of all, for they put us out of tune with the music of the universe.

Success.

The great highway of human welfare lies along the old highway of steadfast well-doing; and they who are the most persistent, and work in the truest spirit, will invariably be the most successful; success treads on the heels of every effort.—S. Smiles.

Honest Prayer.

We must be often, and alone, with God, and there at his feet we must pour out our hearts and ask his richest blessing upon our united endeavor. "To pray," says Fenelon, "is to desire; but it is to desire what God would have us desire. He who desires not, from the bottom of his heart, offers a deceitful prayer."

No Greater Enemy.

Though all things do to harm with him what they can, no greater enemy to himself than man.—Earl of Stirling.

DO YOU HAVE DIZZY SPELL

It's Important to Learn the Cause.
As Many Bedford People Have

Dizziness is never a disease of itself—it's only a symptom of some deeper-seated trouble. Much dizziness is caused by disordered kidneys failing to filter all the poisons from the blood. These poisons attack the nerves and dizziness results. If you are subject to dizziness, there is good reason to suspect your kidneys, and if you suffer backache, headache, and irregularity of the kidney secretions, you have further proof. Many Bedford people have learned the value of Doan's Kidney Pills in just such cases. Read this Bedford resident's statement:

Mrs. S. Delaney, W. Penn St., says:

"Every time I have had any trouble with my kidneys I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they have relieved me in a short time. Frequently I have had bad pains in my back and severe headaches and I would get so dizzy that the room would seem to be going around. At such times just one box of Doan's have driven the trouble away and I consider them a wonderful remedy for kidney complaint."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Delaney had. Foster—Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

When The Day Is Over

When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago.

Everything growing out of the ground seems intended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening, bearing-down pains, irregularities, pelvic inflammations, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root and Oregon grape root. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine are injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it, in liquid or tablet form.
